Thursday, October 16, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Live on your hopes, your faith and love which you cultivate with happiness. Don't dwell on hassles; they are mere stones on the way and they do not slow you down at all in your progress towards the goal. Let yourself be carried away by the waves of love, let your heart literally explode with joy in these transports of the soul, which hoists you up well far from this Earth.

"Love and be loved, my child; a loving heart attracts divine graces. Rocked and adulated by these powerful waves, let it get carried away in the most complete surrender. In us you put your trust. Advance in peace; all is well.

"Life taught you the main things. You have managed to take advantage of ordeals, sufferings and happiness, too. All is formative for one who wants to understand well the necessity of the hard school of life. On this aspect, yours was educational; your faith has guided you.

"After a long way, it led you to the feet of your Master: that was the achievement. Let your heart sacrifice itself at the feet of the Divinity he represents on this Earth. Put your trust in him and bestow upon him the favours of your love, which a Master needs to achieve his heavy task in this world. The love of his fervent disciples, whom he can rely on, is an invaluable help to him. He does not work in vain: by raising hearts when he goes past, the divine graces keep carrying him. Love, you will be loved."

Babuji