Remember: all is nothing, God is all. Do not lose sight of the motto that has become yours as you have often repeated it during your life. It summarizes all. Life on this Earth is transitory, and tangible properties are illusory. Only strength given by faith can help man at all the stages of his existence. You noticed it many times; the supreme refuge is within you. After having long looked for it and called God in your heart, the door opened to this space reserved to whoever really is interested. The spiritual quest is the most instructive process possible. It does not build in vain. It accumulates true values. They will remain important, outside the time boundary and this incarnation, without undergoing arbitrary quotation.

"You can thank, which you don't fail to do, for having found your way. It was offered to you who were looking for a Master destined for you. Henceforth, the goal of your existence was reached, so your progress could take shape under his high protection.

"Our aspirants do not realize their luck. They become attached to the Master as an individual, without being well aware of his spiritual dimension, which is beyond the physical one. His capacity is big, but does he assess it himself? As an incarnated being he cannot really do it, which does not at all hinder the working of his power.

"Love him and carry on your way with confidence, while venerating him. He will deeply mark his time spent on this Earth. His mystical personality is exemplary and he will moreover be renowned as a builder, having made possible the establishment of places where our Mission can develop in the world."
