Monday, October 27, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Your relation with my son is evolving in the desired direction. A soul devoted to service is guided according to divine ways in which it is involved. An existence on Earth represents a page of the book where its history is recorded. Yours provided for this extrasensory prospecting in which you excel, your gifts being refined to serve us.

"My son has just started to discover himself, to explore other aspects of his personality, rich in possibilities whose scope he does not assess. His current incarnation has limited some of his perceptions until now, which will broaden towards other horizons in due time.

"Life on Earth unfolds slowly as he pointed out in your contacts. During the last stage of his career, characterized by the growing success of his undertakings, certain aspects of his power will be revealed to him which he could not imagine. It is good that while incarnate, a being—whatever his level of evolution—cannot assess his own capabilities exactly. Until the end, his own reality is not revealed to him in this world. Such are the divine laws, in their complexity.

"All has its raison d'être; a life must remain centred on its main objective and must not depart from it by moving away on by-paths, which would jeopardize the targeted goal.

"Total trust is required, even more importantly in an exceptional destiny like my son's. On Earth, he is like an explorer on mission on some unknown planet, and remote-controlled by the higher powers, measuring with the necessary hindsight the progress and success of this mission.

"To my beloved son all our encouragements and our very special blessings."

Babuji