Monday, January 19, 2004 - 10:00 AM

You do not have the necessary hindsight to assess the impact these messages will have: they will mark our Mission by the special tone they will bring owing to their source. My son, thanks to his ability to synthesize and to qualities he personifies, can grasp all their meaning, his perceptions going very far beyond human comprehension. He will manage all this manna with great panache, as he usually does. (When the lion roars in the savanna, all that lives hears it and freezes.)

"A spiritual Master, given what life is in this century, must have capabilities going well beyond that 'quality.'

"He was not chosen in vain, we will repeat it once more, and this is actually opportune: everything has its raison d'être, which man doesn't understand easily. "Why him, why not me?' "Why does the Master act like this or that?' When will our brothers grow in wisdom, to accept the higher reasons for choosing him? Never mind, the Mission is advancing; my son is applying himself to that with a rare energy. Our choice was as judicious as could be, needless to say! He commands the admiration of his circle and his action keeps expanding. In the present state of affairs, who could do better than him?

"We support him with all possible love and we welcome his decisions, especially in the area referred to herein. This blessed son makes us happy. May he feel through these lines all that he inspires in the higher hierarchy, and which can reassure and reinvigorate him in his action."

Babuji