Sunday, April 11, 2004 - 9:30 AM

The relation between my son and you has become what we were expecting, but it can still progress on the human level. Beyond this level, the communication became easy and it corresponds to the plan foreseen, showing to my son another aspect of his personality, which humanly he cannot apprehend. This fact is very unusual and it will surprise him, but as we insistently underline in these messages, minds must evolve and open up to concepts that hitherto exceeded them.

"A mark must be passed; humanity cannot continue to stagnate like that. This open-mindedness about a reality ignored in this world, requires going through all kinds of upheavals. What we are conveying through these messages may now surprise some of our brothers, but those who will come after them will appreciate a language more in line with what they will experience. We will even have to go very much further. We are yet at the beginning of a long mystical épopée [saga] having many surprises and discoveries in store for tomorrow's man. We cannot indefinitely stick to conventional remarks, repeated over centuries, to remain in the line of reassuring traditionalism.

"Our abhyasis made a choice by coming towards us. Seeking what corresponded to a profound aspiration, they stayed on in our way. No way is easy. Whatever the means chosen to reach the goal, unremittingly renewed efforts are required. We are attentive to each person's ordeals; they are inevitable, thus is the law of the evolution.

"May all be blessed!"

Babuji