Friday, January 21, 2000 - 8:00 AM

Collect some of the sayings that remained in your drawers. They are pearls that you can append to the end of this 'soaring.' Nothing must get lost of what has been kept. The rest 'vanished.' Our scribe had no idea of what would come of all that.

"An impressive number of messages were captured on computer, which represents a stock that we are happy to offer you. It is up to you to make good use of it. They also can remain in a drawer, or, thanks to your taking care of them; they will fructify in you and swell your stock.

"Remember Jesus' parable concerning 'talents.' That is about an allusion to the richness of the teaching that he dispensed to his disciples, from which some of them, wiser than others, derived more benefit. If the message of that Master who spoke only of love and tolerance had been heard, the face of the world would have been rather different. What has become of that today? What have those who pretend to speak in his name done? The evil cannot fade away, but some remain who are still working in the right direction. They are selected souls that work for the good of humanity."

Babuji