Sunday, May 9, 2004 - 10:00 AM

We prepared you for these exchanges, more especially for those which you keep up with my son through somewhat special ways established purposely for the occasion. Your gifts give you access to a level of consciousness that puts you in connection with an emanation of his divinized being, thus resulting in a teaching meant to help our brothers. The tone is adjusted to the situation, like in the case of our exchanges. They are complementary and have different styles, pointing out our respective personalities.

"He is progressing gradually, thus preparing people for receiving other truths. The observers will be able to recognize them, and their deductions will brush aside the doubts they may have. The new era is supposed to be an era of enlightenment, discoveries, and the approach to a truth, which men need seriously in view of resuming the right direction. It will be a step-by-step process whereby anything that could hinder it will be removed.

"It is better to interiorize oneself here and now, and to try to understand the motivations of humanity as they are currently, and to consequently draw the necessary conclusions. It cannot continue like that—this escalation of violence and evil—because of the risk of being damned. This humanity has another side, which logically should be revealed. We are working to that end. No matter what appearances may be, the ferment will end up operating for the good of all, even if that seems utopian today.

"Much more important changes are brewing outside this world, exceeding the human comprehension and they will foster the transformation that must be accomplished on this planet. These remarks are not useless, they foreshadow what must occur: it partakes of the Divine and it is therefore inescapable."

Babuji