Your efforts in serving us are commendable, my child. Get more and more involved in this way of love, which is yours. With time, humanity will also advance in this way; we are working to that end. Such is the future destiny of this world. Many days and nights will have succeeded one another before this achievement, but that is how it is; divine laws, whatever their manifestations, are inflexible.

"In these messages we often come back to this concept of love; it will be imperative on its own more and more in the heart of our brothers and in the resulting facts. Our Mission, in all respects, will evolve with time in line with this divine will, which is the framework of the new era, providing another dimension to humanity. We are preparing souls with this point of view. This work will be carried out by stages, to lead to the expected results.

"Most of our aspirants are motivated; they are advancing and are precursors in this great ascending movement. They are not aware of it, having no point of reference for that. It is enough for them to trust us, to follow their Master in what he proposes, even if that entails engaging in unusual aspects.

"The spiritual world can evolve only on this condition; how could humanity progress if it remains trapped in its old concepts? A more realistic view of man will have to be imperative and make people advance in line with the truth. Warning signs show it; the new era is in the making."
