Wednesday, September 15, 2004 - 10:00 AM

Try to open a window on the future, to see what will be the Sahaj Marg Mission in the world. In the beginning, our brothers would not have imagined it as it is today. What can we say about the future? We have made enough predictions in the matter; nevertheless this prospect must encourage you and motivate you to forge ahead, concerning the messages.

"No aspect of our teaching should be neglected. We must touch the greatest number; many are awaiting this kind of futuristic vision of life on Earth and its repercussions on the evolution of the beings. Spirituality having eventually found then its true place, they will be able to open out in their quest of a truth concerning them and in a broader sense, in the discovery of phenomena which today's man has no clue about, and which are nevertheless essential.

"Everything in its own time; this world must change, that is how it is. Open minds easily consider an approach of the facts preparing for the future upheavals imperceptibly through many transformations. There will be no wave of the magic wand! The divine laws apply inexorably.

"What does man represent in this great universal set up? The planet Earth itself is a minor element lost in the vastness of creation. It must quite simply follow the web of its destiny. Surrendered to the Divine power, it cannot change anything about it, or maybe just a little. Only a profound metamorphosis can open for him the doors to a different spiritual dimension, releasing him little by little from a constraining materiality in every respect.

"Our way prepares the hearts; they are refined and become receptive to the signs being shown to them, in many ways. All will be given to them in due time, spiritual work marking their way in an indelible way."

Babuji