Friday, December 29, 2000 - 8:00 AM

Nuclear power will ruin the world. This badly controlled power is demonic. One day, man will be overwhelmed by its power. Upheavals that will change the world will have their origin in it. It has much wider implications than you could imagine and which contribute to destabilizing the balance of this planet. In this matter also, man plays with fire, without actually being aware of the detrimental consequences for humanity.

"A natural energy will replace all that is currently used and which are harmful to man. Human knowledge does not allow its use for the time being. These secrets will be revealed to men of goodwill, who will look into an inspired scientific research. That energy will be non-polluting and not very expensive. Those with money power will not be content with it; only the absolute necessity for the survival of the world will prevail. This time is not going to happen tomorrow. The Earth will go through great changes before getting into that.

"These prophecies do not concern you. You are undergoing the damaging effects of this insidious pollution, which will lead the world to collapsing, but you can neither stop time nor modify the system in place. Then protect yourself as well as possible from these harmful effects and pray for your brothers of the future."

Babuji