

Thursday, November 16, 2000 - 8:00 AM

You see, from the biggest person to the smallest one, difficulties do arise on the way. Whatever the social rank and the level of spiritual evolution, and whether being entrusted with a mission or not, ordeals are humans' lot. Sooner or later, no one escapes this rule. So will it be until the end of time, on this planet Earth. We have sufficiently expressed ourselves on the issue, since the beginning of our contacts.

"It is an initiatory journey that each of you must embark on, with strong points that are particularly difficult to get on. These are crucial moments that refine your personality, in all meanings of the word. In most cases, it results in your getting stronger and you set off again towards other fights. We mark out your journey so that strength is given you over the appropriate period of time, to face all possibilities.

"The sun continues to shine, in spite of whatever may happen in your life. This sun, that illuminates your road from inside, the one that illuminates your soul and that glorifies it, never lose sight of it. You should know that in the gloomiest moments of your existence, we are there, close to you, even though you don't see us.

"I will answer my son later."

Babuji