Infinite love leads the greatest beings to extreme reactions. Their perfection of consciousness has reached such a level, that it is not easy to manage. There is neither exaggeration nor weakness; the cause lies in the need to be in perfect harmony with the divine Creator. The human being must go a long way before attaining this very high degree of perfection. It is not easy to reach, and requires great sacrifices.

"All these concepts are beyond you; you take pleasure in your behaviours, which you find acceptable. This is why we insist so much to make you open your eyes on the many failings that characterize the human being, and which must be definitely got rid of.

"We do not exaggerate anything: you will sooner or later manage to become aware of your lacks, and you will be face to face with a reality that will overwhelm you. You will then have to assess the whole progress and re-examine your shortcomings from A to Z; this is inescapable.

"Either you continue to stagnate, or you tackle the problem. Laxity is more comfortable, but you should know that the moment will come, in your evolutionary cycle, when you will have to take necessary measures."
