Many of our brothers find this means of communicating with us surprising, but by and large, it will be recognized and appreciated when the moment has come to reveal it. Other spiritual ways, as well as big religious movements (such as the messages from Jesus) always benefited from it. Man must face the facts: all is possible in this area and this aspect is being exploited since very distant days. Where high performing technology is ineffective, capabilities are granted to certain beings, which all humans do not have in the present state of affairs.

"Man has a lot to learn and discover about his own inner resources. His mind must open up to the [apparently] irrational because of the risk of not developing within his time. A day will come when he will be in such circumstances that he will have to face the facts: Earth is not the only inhabited planet, far from it. Highly advanced civilizations exist elsewhere and find, when necessary, suitable receivers among humans. Having capabilities, which others do not have, they are not recognized by everybody. Minds are opening slowly but irreversibly. The era of changes is taking shape. It operates in the hearts; imperceptibly they will have to open up to a reality, which hitherto has been beyond them. Everything can happen very quickly; when the moment has come it will not be reversed. Our way, with its characteristic openness at all levels, will not remain in the background. On the contrary, it holds its due place and will play its role in due time."
