Friday, August 13, 2004 - 10:00 AM

Plunge within yourself, indulge in the delights which fulfil your soul and the secret door will be opened to let your heart be immersed in ours. This one is vast; it gathers the souls united divinely in serving a common cause. Let life rejuvenate you, my child. Leave sadness and worries far behind you. You need these pauses that show you that one day, once you have gone through the gate of the world where you are living, new prospects for your fulfilment will open up.

"That will not be an end, but a beginning. It will then remain for you to define it to your guides. Be serene, you are complying with what we await from you here below. A well-deserved rest, constructive and enlightening, will await you when the time comes. You have not reached this point of no return. After this contact, you will return to your physical body, once again, and a written page will remain, adding to the rest of these messages.

"The thread connecting you to us is subtle and thin, and yet it very strongly links you to our hearts. Yours, don't worry, is well moored to the shore and we are watching over this frail barque with love. In this contact, where your Master is present, are being consolidated necessary bonds between you both, for his action in an area where you are also playing a role.

"All this is in conformity with our wishes. Be confident, my daughter: what you do each day, in priority and out of love, is not banal, even if you cannot assess the import of it. Let yourself be carried in greatest surrender, continuing to be enlightened by associating with the Chosen ones of a world where beauty and purity constitute the essential features.

"Be patient and strong, we bless you."

Babuji