Saturday, September 25, 2004 - 10:00 AM

These words which because of your sense of propriety you do not want to write, my child, reach my heart. Thought is a powerful force, and you know it. It can produce the best and also its opposite. As our brother Maitreya told you, humanity is in danger; it is suffering from a thousand evils and it needs prayers, good thoughts, which like a balm, could alleviate them.

"This process is not useless, it alone cannot change everything, but it pertains to the great redeeming movement capable of transforming it. Powerful forces will manage that, driven by divine will and according to its own criteria, which are not those which men expect. Our way is playing its role; contributing to their elevation, it is preparing hearts to receive the fruits of a new era, full of all kinds of transformations—primarily redeeming."

Babuji