Monday, November 1, 2004 - 10:00 AM

My child, you are not an ordinary medium. We chose you, and so your gifts were developed. The colloquial tone of these messages has its raison d'être; do not hide the remarks concerning you. These writings tell a story and without you, they would not exist. This being underlined once again, we can perhaps add some pages to these collections of 'Reflections,' if you can.

"These messages will have a mixed reception; it is in the nature of things. A majority of our brothers will be able to appreciate them and in their wisdom, they will realize what benefit they derive from them. Deeply buried, beyond the words, that is where their secret lies. Our aspirants trust us. Then why would they doubt what we are giving them with a view of only helping them? We are standing in relation to future changes; the justification of the rebirth of our way resides there, hence its flexibility of adaptation to the spirit of openness that they will provide.

"Human beings don't like to be hustled in their convictions; they have their own reference marks and in general they stick to them. A spiritual way is supposed to open the mind of the aspirant. It is the purpose of this work; then why would he refuse what he is given to facilitate it? Being able to adapt to the changes when they are necessary, is a sign of receptiveness of heart and mind.

"May all our brothers trust us and prepare mentally for the new era. May all be blessed."

Babuji