We have come a long way together, marked by an impressive number of messages, intended for our aspirants of the present and even more for those of future times when this form of communication will no longer be seen as surprising. The spirits are opening slowly, but they are preparing for receiving the fruit of knowledge, that which does not belong to this world. It will illuminate the heart of our brothers and all the beings populating this Earth, when it has reached a higher level of consciousness.

"The appeal of the souls justifies an unprecedented change, like the one mentioned throughout these messages. Opposites do not clash in vain; they generate a force of attraction capable of modifying the structures of a mad world. It is necessary to go further towards the excesses, for a reversal of situation to occur. The slowness of the vibratory movement of this planet contributes to maintaining this civilization in the miasmas characterizing it.

"All must change, it is in the nature of things, and it is a question of time, especially when it is about an action of that scale aiming at modifying all the manifestations of life. A revived world where will live responsible human beings, respecting all the forms of life, however small they may be and moreover, entirely focused on the essentials, can be now considered to be a dream that cannot come true.

"We said it often enough. To God, nothing is impossible. All these remarks are not unfounded; it would be good for our brothers to prepare themselves with a positive attitude."
