Friday, February 18, 2000 - 10:00 a.m.

My son is feeling better; he has recharged his batteries. Psychologically, he comes to terms with his mourning. He must learn how to carry on differently as a human. The loss of a loved one leaves a vacuum; you know it well. Even a very high level spiritual Master has to go through such a step.

"Michel should not lose heart. It is necessary to let the storm blow over; these civil servants will end up loosening their grip. They are paid to do this work; it is not long now – hold on.

"Continue to rest for the moment. There is nothing else to do. Eliminate all that is not essential in your activities. You will have nothing special today. This contact only shows you that the channel is always open and that we do not forget you.

"The number of messages collected represents a gold mine for hearts ready to receive them. You have done a good job, my dear daughter."

Babuji