Sunday, February 1, 2004 - 6:00 PM

You are our blessed son. Your heart calls for our blessings on this day when we especially take care of this Mission that we can see growing, and in which are placed the greatest hopes for future times.

"Presently, it is playing its role in the spiritual life of a certain number of brothers, scattered over various parts of the world. They have our attention, but you, our son, you attract all that which is deserved by your efforts to serve us with rare competence. All the hopes placed in you proved to be right, to our greater satisfaction. Your so much loved Master announced to you, in one of his messages, my arrival for this anniversary, celebrated in the Mission with unfailing fervour. With time, it is touching to note it, and even more, to see the amount of the efforts made by you to serve a spiritual ideal, which will fully benefit future times.

"Our way is establishing itself slowly after having started on a small scale, thanks to the eagerness of a few who understood the truth, and the power of a teaching capable of helping them and leading them to the intended goal.

"Your action is great, and it is admired by all of us here. Your capacity for work is very often put to a severe test, but courageously, you recovered and you set out again, stronger than before. We all love you and we appreciate you. Therefore it is good, on such occasions, to express oneself in this way.

"Our scribe, today, is very much assailed by requests for good reasons. All those who serve with love, throughout the days, wherever they are in the world, all these brothers and sisters, devoted for the love of us have the very special blessings of our hearts united together to serve a great cause, ours, of which you are the headlight on this earth.

"To you, the best,"

Lalaji