You see, my daughter, what we wanted to arrive at! This approach was not easy between you both. Your reactions are identical; it took us time to tame you. This situation is particular and would not currently be understood by all. Humans get many misconceptions about bonds that link the Master and the disciple and what is more, about relationships existing between this world and other planes. That souls are united and can communicate is beyond comprehension for most of them. Humanity is making progress as regards this idea. It will rediscover, in the future, truths that were naturally understood by civilizations that preceded yours and were more advanced in esoteric knowledge. Some ethnic groups currently venerate a perpetuating teaching and tradition, in spite of attacks from an insidiously devastating civilization. The truth will impose itself, one day, save for refractory minds that will stand aside from this reality. Keep on serving us as usual, with all your heart."
