Wednesday, January 24, 2001 - 10:00 AM

My beloved daughter,

"Yes, I am here by your side, and I am happy to see you reading again the messages from the Venerable. Your collaboration was very beneficial to you, beyond what you can imagine. That episode represented a significant turning point in the long way of your spiritual development.

"We have been shaping your heart for a long time and any means will do, including ordeals, to reach that point. After this re-reading, I can see that you agree that we speak about you. M. is right: a lecture is livelier when it is given while focusing on a student more gifted than the others, and who is the ideal target. All can see themselves in that student, and if they are intelligent, they can be stimulated by this way of doing.

"My son is rushed. He tries to face up to the many problems which he is confronted with and which he must resolve for the best. You will hear from him as per your heart's aspiration. Don't be anxious: he appreciates these fruitful contacts that comfort him intensely. He cannot, with decency, express himself as he would like to do, but be assured that these messages hold a very important place in his life.

"Spare yourself, my dear daughter, time and energy that you devote to us, are repaid to you a hundred times over. Be sure of that."

Babuji