

Wednesday, February 14, 2001 - 8:00 AM

Why wouldn't you communicate with my son? Is this so difficult to imagine for somebody like you? You will always amaze us. If you, as a medium, wonder about this possibility, how would the others, who are not mediums, react?

"Certain ethnic and religious groups are currently practising telepathy. In very advanced ancient civilizations, this means [of communication] was usually employed. Where is the progress of current civilization, if such possibilities cannot be expressed? They are to be developed and remain one of the human characteristics, which, in the current educational process, is not only occulted, but also treated with derision by a majority of individuals.

"The human brain has enormous but unexploited possibilities. Intellectualism takes precedence over everything; intuition and true self-knowledge being relegated to the shelf of quirks. Certain beings have surprising gifts, which they must often hide from their circle, fearing to be misunderstood. My dear daughter, you have important channelling gifts, and even if your life did not entirely foster their real expression, we ask you not to fear human reactions on this issue any more.

"There will always be short-sighted people narrow-minded on many issues related to this particular field who will not understand. That does not matter, go on your way and do what you must do. We chose you and trust you, so believe in our appreciation despite your persistent self-doubt."

Babuji