The way, the Master, the goal, never lose sight of this objective. In spirituality, everything has to be started all over again, endlessly. This is also the driving force of your life. The more you advance, the less important the nonessentials. You secure your material needs on a daily basis and all your efforts are invested in spiritual work. There is a stage wherefrom this need keeps growing. With time, you will realize the extent of its role in your daily life and this fact will make you happy. It is a food, a comfort. Being united with the inner Master, the Divine one, is there anything more beautiful, more soothing for the heart and more inspiring, too?

"How can these million souls who lack it do without it? Let us act, act in this direction. Let our individual work make humanity progress. The souls advancing towards light illuminate the world. You do not work only for yourself; there too the attraction force applies. In this sense, you never act for yourself alone. This should doubly encourage you. You have your place in the divine big game, however modest it may be."
