Come into your refuge, let yourself be rocked by the transmission. It is a joy to follow your efforts; your perseverance is touching. Your love and your faith in us bear their fruits. In this period of your existence where you cannot enjoy outdoor life, the sun and the fresh air can be found inside yourself. This handicap compels you to push very strongly the door of the heart and to answer its aspirations.

"You could rove the world and yet you would feel lonely and sad. Your destiny is quite different; this does not depend on us. We try to embellish your isolation, but we don't maintain you in this state to take advantage of you. That is a wrong statement [comment made by X]; it is contrary to the divine laws. We do not create a situation to benefit from it. We use the gifts and the states of the heart. A well-hardened soul, which offers itself to us, is guided for the good in its progress. We are both sad and happy for what you are enduring. When you have left the Earth and your mortal coil, you will bless it. We will resume later."
