Monday, May 31, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

Our messages are not optimistic. We don't know any more which way to turn. This feeling of helplessness is worrying. We feel overtaken by certain situations. The Earth's karma is heavy, like that of the individuals; it must be achieved at all costs.

"Don't lose heart in your way of acting. You only carry that which is due you and which is within your capabilities. Never doubt the divine greatness; the laws of God cannot be understood by men. So will it be until the end of time: a continuous struggle. Life, death, and movement are all inevitable and necessary. Think of the day you will reach other shores, where time will be more serene, where harmony will reign between all the beings. You will heal your wounds and you will forget quickly.

"Let us pray together for the advent of an era of peace on the Earth where it is good to be alive. Add to this that we believe in it firmly. Carry your burden with courage, my dear daughter."

Babuji