No way, however good it may be, can suit everyone. The soul, during its evolution, follows many twists and turns before finding what is convenient for him.

"You are privileged people; having come a sufficiently long way through other lives, you are granted the opportunity to reach the targeted point and to be able to achieve what needs to be achieved. When the fruit is ripe, it should be picked and exposed. Looking at it, one can see how much the beneficial rays of the sun have made of it the most perfect fruit in its category. By following the right process, you also are exposed to the purifying rays of love, that bring you to the ultimate ripening of the soul, so that its beauty can radiate and attract other souls in research. Those that are thirsty for the Divine can feel this powerful attraction.

"Love has the same effects as the sun on nature. It is the soul's food and life. Without it, the soul vegetates and does not find its oxygen. It suffers and wilts. A good channel presents itself to it; then it half opens, and gets carried away; finally, it can come alive. The aspiration it had inside can be fulfilled and it materializes in terms of the heartfelt effects. The way is open, luminous, and intangible. With time all is possible. That is the way it goes."
