Tuesday, June 15, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

To illustrate the comments below, imagine wires of light surrounding the Earth. This is what happens during gatherings where several thousands of abhyasis meditate together. These are moments of unimaginable grace. The common run of people does not feel it, but the work is effective. That we were again given this very old method of spiritual work is a great divine blessing for this time. To illuminate the world is a great programme. Suffering humanity will not be healed in a few decades, but the treatment already bears its fruits, and this action will be multiplied by ten in the future.

"Let us live for the present, let each one of us act at our respective level, according to the role assigned to us. All together, like in an active and buzzing hive, the honey produced will feed many people; thirsty souls will come there and refresh themselves. In this context, each action is counted, useful and added to the entire work.

"You are pioneers, have all courage and all possible audacities while in the field or only in your room. Nothing limits you and everything is added up. It is thrilling to witness the progress of a movement which will help to save the world. Regain stature. May the divine breath carry you; consider yourself like that and act for the good. With our blessings."

Babuji