The Medium: "Babuji, today's message brings this collection to a close. Should we continue? Is your thought strictly respected?"

Why are you asking this question? You know the answer: this second collection is interesting, don't you think so? If at least one soul is helped by reading it, then we should continue. You play a pivotal role in this business; you would like to finish because this requires your very great efforts, but isn't your heart happy to meet with mine each day?"

The Medium: "How could I refuse? Make me receive faithfully what you want to convey. That is my concern, and you know it. My current state hinders my perceptive capacities."

"Rest reassured, all is well. How could we conclude in an optimistic way that would please our dear abhyasis? With encouragements and compliments? Our comments are not always valued; they do not mean though that we don't think good things of you. Many have remained like children and do not like our comments that are meant to make them become aware of their weaknesses. That does not mean that they do not have great qualities, that their work is neglected and that their condition is unsatisfactory.

"Each one of you gets the fruit of his work, transcended by the work of the Master. If the road is difficult, the results are commensurate to it. Be confident, it is good to keep a check on oneself, to wish the best; with courage and faith, success is guaranteed."
