Thursday, June 24, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

Yes, my daughter, you can say time and again until your last breath: 'My God, I love You'. He never disappoints us. He is our only and true friend. You have known it for a long time: humans are changeable, but God is not. He has his laws which are not to your liking, but they are only for your own good and that of creation. Your small and narrow ways of thinking cannot grasp the entire scope.

"You all, who have already taken a great step, you will start to foresee the validity of some rules. No matter what happens, be surrendered to the divine will and be grateful for having reached this point of evolution where there's no limit to what you can hope for.

"We will not go any further; have some rest, meditate now....

"You have been granted wisdom which many great scholars do not have.

"'In my Father's house there are many abodes.' (John 14:2)

"There are indeed inaccessible fields, even to some highly educated beings, to outstanding individuals holding pre-eminent positions in this world. God has his own criteria, which are not those of men.

"You are blessed, my daughter; never forget it."

Babuji