May Mother be blessed, through whom the messages of my Beloved Master are conveyed to me. They help me to withstand my heavy task. I feel less lonely, since I know that his good words can reach me through this means. I feel reassured to know that He has nothing to blame me about. It's not easy to manage everything; each country in the world has a way of living, a spirit, and different moral standards. You must act with each one of them accordingly. I am privileged to be able to benefit from these means of communication. It is a divine grace granted by my Revered Master. When we meet eventually, He will be happy. It is the least we can do to show Him our gratitude. I will do everything possible so that this project is implemented."

The Medium: "Is it really you I am receiving?"

"You know what He has said yesterday: 'no more doubt', therefore, turn the page and start to write a new story that will make Him happy; it's the least we can do for Him."
