his [process of relaying the] teaching of a spiritual Master through a medium is unprecedented in the history of the great beings who marked their time. That happened for me with Revered Lalaji, as well as other great souls, but the conditions were different, since from the outset I was his disciple and his successor elect. These messages will arouse more interest; they are accessible to all, since each one can see themselves in you. Do not begin to get entangled in doubt; you are jamming the communication. What you achieve in your practice is easy to do. You have come very far, and it is time that has brought you today to this enviable level which has grown in you. Anyone can reach it through perseverance, unfailing faith and unconditional love. Your heart, in its simplicity, has managed to touch mine; how could one resist being touched by such a state of surrender! There is no need to achieve feats. There exist short cuts at least as effective as a great fast track. Doors are opened easier if you humble yourself, if you offer your love with all humility without expecting anything in return. These means are within your reach; it's up to you to make choices and advance towards the goal. We are nearing the end of these long series of messages; if you feel like reading them, they will help you by bringing you towards spareness and sincerity."
