Saturday, May 5, 2001 - 8:00 a.m.

The Medium: "Babuji, tell us about love."

We have already done so: you have 'the Songs of the Spirit'. What more should be said? You can only get a pale idea of what it really is.

"In your human incarnation, you can feel its effects, which enables you to imagine its power and its influence in the universe. It is a solace to men's heart to make their stay on Earth bearable.

"Singing love, approaching it in various ways, makes you sense its strength and the extent of its power over the life of beings. Whether it is human or divine, it partakes of the same principle: it generates a subtle and indefinable energy which has its source in the heart, seat of a man's soul. It is the driving force of the created world; its manifestation is obvious, but indefinable. It is the origin of the subtle energy governing all universal manifestations. It is a mystery to man, who, through trial and error and deductions, sometimes sound, is trying to understand the wheels that allow this world to exist, planets to spin, move, mutually influence each other and tirelessly continue their movement. This unique cosmic energy vibrates on all the notes of a very wide spectrum, beyond human comprehension. However little it may be, may you feel it in your hearts."

Babuji