Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, February 28, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

The soul is immortal. It is gliding towards the Infinite and reaches spheres where its journey allows it to evolve, hence the goal of a spiritual way — that which contributes to the elevation of each soul. Nothing is more beautiful than this elevation, when the soul's eagerness to advance heightens its faith in a path that is decisive for it. The Master, as a guide on this path, is most important; his action enables that which cannot be achieved otherwise. A beautiful soul, surrendered and sincere, requires this light to illuminate its way on Earth and beyond, where it is necessary for the transmigration of the soul on its heavenly course. An incarnation here below is a necessary stop; its duration is short compared to eternity.

"There is no time to lose; may all our abhyasis, convinced of this necessity, move forward with ardour and determination. A pointless life is a waste of time, a serious breach in the personal requirements of the spiritual entity of the being who thirsts for the Divine.

"Many people neglect this aspect of their personality, but is their awakening sufficient for them to become aware of it? Unfortunately, it is commonplace. We have no magic wand; the time of spiritual apotheosis has not reached its peak — we are far from it. Much work remains to be done, and we must forge ahead to help this humanity that is growing in number, but not in wisdom. Enlightened souls understand our comments. Our brothers and sisters should put themselves into their practice more, thus fostering an overall progress made up of higher and subtler vibrations. These vibrations will be crucial in the future. These comments may seem unfounded, but such is not the case.

"Doesn't everything have its raison d'être? Let us all work at all levels to achieve the goal.

"May all be enlightened on this aspect and strengthened in their eagerness to make real progress.

"Blessings to everyone."
