Saturday, December 18, 2004 - 10:00 AM

My very dear son,

"The Divine Babuji steps aside to allow me, through this message, to touch your heart. Mine is there close to you, it watches over, like a mother's heart does for her tenderly loved child. Your physical strength fails you. Your body no longer responds to all the requests; that phenomenon is only human.

"What fills my heart with wonder, as a mother always present by your side, is your spiritual dimension, which keeps growing and expanding in terms of its power of action in this world and well beyond. This Mission you are serving with faith lays solid foundations for the future, according to the will of the great college of higher authorities.

"Nothing in that domain takes place without reason; you were chosen by the Beloved of your heart and He returns it to you infinitely. The power of that Being also keeps growing; it fills us with wonder and motivates us infinitely. This Mission to which you have devoted your life, and which is soaring under your spiritual guidance and your wise directives, is in keeping with the great projects of the future. It is not transient, far from it.

"All the powers are united; from the smallest to the biggest, the beings devoted to this cause take care of what occurs in this world to support your action. Its full scope will be revealed in the future centuries. The great movements that influenced humanity emerged at a smaller scale before extending all over the world.

"A new era is in the offing, my son, and you are standing at the threshold of it, holding a torch, with an immense heart capable of lighting the world. I cannot find the words to express how much I love you, my son."

Janaki