My Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, October 12, 2013 — 10:00 a.m.

Life is multidimensional. At the material level, it is demanding, as there are inevitably many constraints. Spiritual life offers different opportunities; devoting oneself in the slightest way to that life completely changes one's journey. An incarnation is always full of surprises. Everything can change in an instant, altering the design of life with its constant motion. Opening up to such a spiritual approach testifies to a need, a personal transformation whose effects will continue to unfold over time. When this stage is reached, the soul calls out; this thirst for the Divine must be addressed. For seekers, their level of evolution accounts for their journey, their personal quest towards what they presently deem important and necessary for their advancement. When the heart is seeking, it looks for the way — one that it finds suitable. It does not always find such a path immediately. Sometimes even unsatisfactory experiences can lead one towards making the right choice later on. Finding one's way, that which answers the inner call, is a blessing. Although previous experiences may have been helpful in preparing the seeker, it is only at this time that the journey can start. Everything can now fall into place and bring about the best. Our way is working accordingly. Many of our brothers and sisters have had these experiences — ones that prepared them to better understand the importance of their current work in the Sahaj Marg Mission. To all, we wish the best — enlightenment, knowledge and a full blossoming with respect to this essential step in the progress of each one. Blessings."

Babuji Maharaj