Whispers from The Brighter World

This incarnation was a true blessing. Once I was chosen by the hierarchy of Masters, they took me to the highest level, and my work on this extraordinary spiritual path has been continuous ever since. It continues in a different manner, but it nevertheless remains a priority in the area that is entrusted to me here. We are also monitoring our dear Kamlesh who is granted our full support to discharge his special responsibilities. He is integrating into his role brilliantly, and we are all happy for that. We expect a lot from him simply because he has the stature to take on the task as appropriate. As it has reached a pivotal point in its history, the way of Sahaj Marg should be further expanded to fully meet a demand that was programmed a long time ago.

"Such is evolution in this world where everything conforms to the divine laws at the level that interests us here. Everything is implemented to the extent possible to meet the expectations of sincere hearts that are yearning for guidance, for a practice that is non-demanding — just what is needed for the best to be accomplished. The egregore of this Mission is growing and establishing itself in a space that is reserved for it, and consequently all is well. To motivate our aspirants, to enlighten them on the dark path of materiality, remains our main action, even if it is done in the shadows, where the best of the being is achieved — that which will remain an asset over time, for the welfare of our dear aspirants.

"To all of them, our special blessings for their perseverance in following us."
