ou are completely reassured; you see that your Beloved does not forget you. Thus things are clearer in this aspect. Your path continues without anything essential being taken away from you. Your life, on the contrary, must grow richer with a precious good which you will benefit from until your departure.

"We are making progress in this work of restructuring your subtle bodies; in some way, it is structural work. The personality of an individual results from all this construction that escapes your human understanding.

"At some stage of your spiritual evolution, universal harmony must prevail in this assembling which life and many tribulations have made chaotic.

"We are tidying up all this very subtle structure. So must it be for a divine precision tool."
