Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, June 6, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Destiny is inescapable; all can confirm this and must make do with what is granted to them. The road is long, and tests are both enlightening and indispensable for human evolution. It is not always easy to live with this, nonetheless wisdom allows one to recognise that such tests are necessary in each person's life. This journey on Earth has no other purpose than to train human beings and help them cope with adversity, allowing them to understand the laws of karma and grow stronger in the face of them. Following a spiritual path enables one to clarify situations, to better accept tests and to even turn them into a strength, an advantage, for better managing what life has in store. Evolution driven by such a process is valuable — it saves precious time. From one lifetime to another, faith in the higher power is strengthened when it is cultivated by a real commitment.

"Sahaj Marg brings together great and beautiful souls that meet again after many incarnations in other times and places. Similar situations recur and reunite beings who have already gone a long way together. In this manner, from one lifetime to another, stories and events develop that are not insignificant when it comes to working towards the good. Blessed are those hearts who are pure and sincere in their commitment, thus greatly increasing the effects of grace throughout each one's journey. The story of life is both one and multiple, and its complexity would astonish the ordinary mortal. Surrendering before this power is more necessary than ever for the seeker, in order to provide comfort and support on his or her personal path.

"Blessings to all."
