Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, June 19, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

May all possible love spread over the Earth and transform this world — a world that is in such distress, particularly in certain parts of the planet. All cannot be resolved as we would wish. It is necessary to comply with the laws that govern this Earth.

"Ashrams are sacred places where our ceaseless action takes place. This action cannot be measured, but it goes well beyond everyday events and operates in more than one way. The power of divine energy manifests where and when needed, far from human reasoning and for good reasons. To follow a spiritual path is to take action not only for the present but also for the future, preparing that future according to current conceptions and with a view to a subsequent reincarnation. So many questions arise on this aspect of life: birth, rebirth, and the continuation of a path already begun in other lives and other places, where karma is justified in an action that complies with divine purposes.

"Everything has its raison d'être and is so precise in the wheel of karma, where subtlety goes well beyond human reasoning. Surrender attracts grace; this grace is the best asset available to a heart eager to love, to move towards the divine source, whose salutary effects cannot run dry. May more and more beautiful souls unite through this uncommon journey and follow in the footsteps of the united Masters who constitute the very special strength of this sacred union. Time forges beautiful and great histories; that of Sahaj Marg is being built slowly but with strength to help the greatest number of brothers and sisters who are longing for an extraordinary spiritual evolution. May all be appropriately guided and enlightened.

"Endless blessings."
