Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, June 30, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

These writings seem insignificant, yet they are important in the context of our Mission. They are proposed for reasons which each one can appreciate as he or she sees fit. What matters is that they exist; time lends to events their rightful place. This Sahaj Marg Mission is being built little by little in order to one day reach its highest level of action. What is good for humans is appreciable. So much ugliness and tragedy, maintained by hatred, is taking place in the world, whereas another space of peace and love could provide humanity with a dimension that would be much more enlightening for everyone. When will human beings understand that violence leads nowhere, and that caught in this movement, they are jeopardising their own evolution in a very adverse manner. May all beings who are open to the power of divine love work towards the good, each in their own manner, in order to help this distressed world.

"Spirituality is important, and yet it is so very neglected and unrecognised for what it is — namely, a decisive factor in human evolution. A day will come when everything will fall into place in this regard, bringing to Earth a new era, one predicted by the sages of long ago and one whose redeeming effects are achievable. It is up to one and all to find their ideal in life, their way, that which truly frees them from the status of a small human being subjected to the excesses of modern life in all its manifestations.

"Love and blessings to all."
