Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, July 18, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

These comments flow into your heart and you transcribe them with love. The bond that unites us is not ordinary. Without that, would these messages be what they are? Each one can receive them in their own manner and grasp all their subtlety. Repetition is necessary in this area, and this principle allows one to integrate a number of truths, decisive in such a spiritual way. Love is the central axis — its rays extend into infinity where an osmosis takes place, emanating an unparalleled power. The main thing is surrender and the yearning for this transmission; when generated by love, the best can be accomplished. Mergence with the Ultimate is at the end of the road in this unique view, one in which wonders truly happen. Nothing is vain in such an approach; being fully engaged brings about this state. With a little patience, and above all faith in the power of the Masters, the best can be accomplished.

"These comments are not made in vain. One day when the soul really aspires to it, the call is heard and mergence can take place — that which has long been awaited by a sensitive soul strongly yearning for this unique and promising state of grace. That love is powerful. How to imagine what it can generate! Each person in their own manner can experience it. Following such a spiritual path is a precious advantage. It begins to open the heavenly gate; commitment and the call of the heart achieve the rest under our ceaseless blessings."
