Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, September 21, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Every effort bears fruit. Nothing that happens is lost in time when it is necessary for the evolution of each person. Here, we do not tell beautiful stories to feed the imagination. The work done in our way generates very satisfactory effects whose importance will be revealed over time. We are not concerned with grand shows and rituals, but results are obtained thanks to this very simple method that can yet generate the best for each of our brothers and sisters. It is not easy to assess one's own condition and the progress made in this way, but rest assured that this work is not done in vain. A day will come when you will be able to evaluate it yourself, to your greatest satisfaction.

"May love most especially carry you all to the highest level, nourished by these messages that are not insignificant and, above all, by the work of the living Master, the custodian of our power of action.

"Endless blessings to all."
