Whispers from The Brighter World

The aptitude for following a spiritual path shows a potential at this level — one that deserves a sincere engagement and follow-up so one can benefit from the grace generated by such a commitment. It can take time to understand where the true values of an incarnation lie. To make the most of them from one's youth is very rewarding; with every passing day, aspects are revealed that were not evident. One's deepest nature emerges sooner or later and can reveal a satisfactory potential for answering the call of the soul that thirsts for the Divine. This emergence then becomes unstoppable.

"Wisdom requires a total and lasting commitment, one that transforms a life for its greatest enrichment. That which a being receives cannot be described; it can only be experienced intensely. When the soul is in the jubilation of loving, nothing can distract it. This is how the great mystics live; those of the past have amply shown this. Those of the present are no different, but most of them hide their treasure well from the eyes of humans — a treasure whose richness is even greater.

"May all our brothers and sisters bathe in this redeeming energy and take full advantage of this aspect of spiritual life. It is within their reach. One simply needs to have the desire and be fully committed with all love possible — such an appeal is always heard."
