Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, October 17, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Life is movement, perpetual change, while in many respects it remains remarkably unbendable. Human beings are often helpless in the face of life and, in many circumstances, completely overwhelmed. People believe they have their own destinies under control, but such is not the case. In everything, things happen as they should — this is how it is. Disturbances are numerous. They lead the human being to his or her path, [but] they often leave a person helpless in the face of unanticipated situations. One cannot avoid one's karma. From one lifetime to the next a surprising path is followed, one that is meant to lead to wisdom. A spiritual way guides the seeker, leading where he or she unconsciously wants to go. It takes time to come to this awareness: having a living Master saves valuable time and frees one from a burden that is sometimes very heavy.

"Everything happens in secrecy, far from human sight. Human beings are not really able to assess the scourges that hamper humanity's progress towards a desired evolution — one that is decisive for all who inwardly call upon the grace they would wish for in order to truly progress. That time will come; it is foreseen, by the grace of the power of the living Masters, who are working for the good in the name of human beings."
