Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 14, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

When will this hatred between peoples end? So much better could be done for the good of humanity. When this stage is reached, humanity will be able to take a big step, reaching a key point in human evolution at levels that human beings cannot even imagine. Blinded by hatred and incessant resentment, humans remain confined within the limits of a heartbreaking materialism. May we, at our level, convey through this way of the heart enough good vibrations capable of going beyond the limits of our Mission. All of us here are attentive to this suffering world. Sufferings generate a heavy atmosphere, a vibratory state that has repercussions on all of creation. Is wisdom so difficult to attain? Is it too much to ask humans to master what is within some of them — this relentless climate of hatred that is so harmful to all that lives here below? The sufferings of this world affect us immensely; they touch us at levels that you cannot imagine, since the subtleties of these levels are great, multiplying the echoes that reach us.

"May all our abhyasis truly unite on Earth and thus create a sacred space — one that is capable of helping the greatest number of people realise how precious a lifetime is, how it truly deserves to be respected and useful to all that surrounds them. May a general awareness come about and transform this mad world. Such is our most ardent wish."
