Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, November 21, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

There is still so much to say — and especially to do — for the growth of this way. It is nevertheless an important path — one that is taking its place in the world little by little, for the greater good of brothers and sisters who accompany us on this journey. There is much to be said in order for the majority to realise the need to move to this level, the only one that is decisive for each person's growth. Engaging in such an approach testifies to a potential, to the aspiration of the soul to rise and progress towards the goal. This goal cannot be reached without effort; there lies the subtlety of the work that is being accomplished in secrecy, in the labyrinth of an unparalleled journey. True work is being done, and it is not insignificant. The abhyasi's eagerness supports our action.

"There are so many errors, and there is so much restless wandering and time wasted searching elsewhere for that which is within, in the depths of the subtle being. The spiritual heart is the real treasure here; it hides its merits well, along with the opportunities it provides for one to go as far as possible on this journey towards the Eternal. There lies the fulfilment, the serenity — the best possible on each person's path. It takes time to realise it, to experience it completely with full consciousness and in the utmost acceptance of what life is here below. Our abhyasis realise very well what is at stake in this process. They do not engage in it in vain, and their attainment in this area will be decisive. May all achieve the goal — such is our greatest wish."
