Whispers from The Brighter World

The true mystic focuses on his or her practice and the teaching delivered by this path, upon which [the abhyasi] is nourished on a daily basis, being supported by a special and unique transmission. A call of the heart is always heard; such is the strong point of our action, which focuses where it is needed. In such a situation, it is not easy for an abhyasi to grasp all these subtleties. Each progresses at his or her own pace without even realising it, reaching where needed according to their commitment. Holding within oneself this sacred space where the wonder develops — is it not a blessing in a life that in many respects is also difficult?

"From one lifetime to the next, that which is required comes into existence in order to complete a cycle of multiple incarnations necessary for the final outcome. It takes so much effort and so many experiences to reach the goal. Sahaj Marg is a valuable asset in this area, operating where needed — quite simply, but effectively; certain experiences prove this when called for. The commitment of the abhyasi remains crucial. We cannot force anything, but only light the way and specify, when necessary, the essential points for the realisation of one's journey. We are repeating ourselves, but how can we do otherwise; the culmination of this process is worth it, rest assured. Courage and perseverance to all — one day the divine goal will be achieved, and then you will not regret anything; of this you can all be sure.

"Blessings to all."
