Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, February 13, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Some tolerance is indeed welcome in a way like Sahaj Marg, one in which the heart in particular is the target of our action. Life today is not easy; humans live in perpetual stress on the material plane, and no one can escape it. Setting aside a window of peace to follow and practise this spiritual system testifies to a certain degree of wisdom. We are attentive to the commitment of all our brothers and sisters. Nothing is ever simple, but getting involved in such a journey surely bears fruit. Nothing is insignificant in this process; each individual's effort and real commitment is counted. Such an opportunity offered in one's lifetime is a true benefit. Following a spiritual path capable of changing the seeker to such an extent is very satisfying. It is not easy for the abhyasi to evaluate the spiritual results, but everything is indeed counted. From one lifetime to the next, the fruits of such a commitment accumulate, with all that they bring of a very positive nature to the seeker. No one is forgotten; everything done in this direction is counted. We see with happiness that many souls who are being carried by our efforts blossom and progress in a fundamental way. Perseverance and faith are necessary for this. You can all rest assured that nothing is done in vain. Sahaj Marg will continue to astonish people.

"May all, under our constant blessings, reap the best in this ceaseless pursuit of the Divine."
