Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, February 20, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

All of us here follow the messages and participate in our own manner in their preparation. This Mission is so dear to us, as are each of our abhyasis, especially when they call us strongly — all of them have their own trials, needs, and ups and downs. Following a spiritual path cannot solve everything, but we are guiding them in the best possible manner with this approach. It does help them, and above all it saves them valuable time. A life is short in the face of eternity, and each life, however short, provides a significant element. The effects of karma are unfathomable; karma translates the divine laws in minute detail, and without fail. It has been said very often that everything has its raison d'être; how can a human being understand and easily accept all the trials he or she must experience in the course of an incarnation!

"The Masters cannot resolve everything; they support the living Master in the heavy task he is performing under their ceaseless blessings. Such grace is not commonplace, and the achievement of this very special condition that characterises him deserves the love and respect of our brothers and sisters. Thus is created this sacred egregore. It cannot be defined herein, yet it is of the greatest importance. Understanding how necessary it is to work towards the elevation of the soul testifies to a valuable attainment that lights and shapes the path, strengthening the aspirant in his or her ultimate quest for divine splendour. It is worth saying again, and repeating endlessly, how very valuable this commitment is. It leads the soul to its highest destiny — the one that is the most beautiful.

"This is how it is."
