Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, May 30, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Constant repetition is necessary. In this case, as in others, it occurs unceasingly. This is how the world is; it cannot be otherwise. What would life be like without this principle that is critical in each person's existence? The refinement of the human being hinges on it: it takes so many incarnations to attain a condition that is satisfactory according to our understanding. The soul sails along, immortal, being in a sense detached from matter. It continues on a journey governed by the divine laws whose complexity cannot be fully grasped by human beings, who are quite limited in the face of this divine greatness. Humanity believes it has reached a very high level of evolution, but such is not the case. In a sense, it has reached a satisfactory stage, but it is still far from its supreme achievement.

There is surely nothing to envy. Each incarnation provides that which a human being needs for his or her own advancement; each level of consciousness has its advantages and disadvantages. Following a spiritual path saves a lot of time in this epic that characterises the evolution of each being living on Earth. Life is but a short journey, one that is more or less satisfactory depending on the laws of karma. Sahaj Marg unifies vibrations, and the Mission is a whole that fosters the evolution of each person by removing barriers created by the negative effects of life. There are unfortunately many such effects, but regular practice harmonises, in a certain way, that which can be harmonised, and this is surely a very positive aspect.

Special blessings to all.
